Your Excellency

Followings upon our previous reports and submitted statements concerning what has happened and continue to happen in the City of Fallujah, Iraq. We wish to draw your attention to the deteriorating situation.

From the outset and at the start of the indiscriminate and merciless campaign of collective punishment and wilful destruction, undertaken by the occupational troops of the United States of America, and inflicted upon the innocent defenceless civilians in Fallujah Most of which commenced in 2003 and since.,

The inhumane siege and indiscriminate killing that occurred in the First Incursions of Fallujah,(4/4/2004 to 5/5/2004).The genocidal massacres commenced with sustained and targeted bombing campaign, aimed directly at the homes of defenceless civilians, resulting in the killing and maiming of dozens of them, all carried out, under the false pretext of “pursuing the leaders of the resistance”, they then, proceeded to prepare the media and political establishments, for a second massacre in September 2004 the operation, seized in November 2004, as in the first incursions, has again resulted in the deaths of thousands more innocent, defenceless civilian victims, killed, wounded, now missing, or were displaced

At that time, peace proposals, were set out and outlined in an open letter, the proposals were drawn by the interim government of Mr. Iyad Allawi those proposals were then submitted to Mr. Kofi Annan, the former General Secretary of the United Nations, these were summarily dismissed and completely ignored, denying the chance and opportunity for a sustained peaceful resolution. As you are fully aware, no doubt, all these actions and acts, by the US, constitute deliberate war crimes and violations contrary with the charters and aims of the Geneva Conventions and in complete violation of International humanitarian laws.
We have no wish or desire to reiterate the principles of international justice, upon which the Organization of the United Nations was established, or the common basis and objectives, that applies any time and place, the clear definitions and meanings of crimes and violations, remains the same and applies to the entire human race, including all human rights activists. We humbly ask you, through your offices and that of the Special Procedures for the Human Rights Council to examine the deliberate perpetrated violations and crimes, contained in the attached report and to apply same moral, legal obligations and responsibilities, that prompted the creation of the United Nations, and investigate the crimes using the same criteria as were applied to other countries, such as Rwanda and the Kosovo, they were just as heinous.

To view all forms of injustices, as abhorrent acts, contrary to the aims and goals expected from the application of civilized universal justice that are contrary to what unites the human race as a civilized community, expected every human being mission's on earth, deserves to be afforded same degree of respect and in accordance with all heavenly religions, and international laws on which the United Nations was established, plead and implore you, state that the very least action that can you undertaken would be to express the respect for the memory of the defenceless victims, to investigate the crimes and violations contained, not only in this report, but all what has been inflicted upon Iraq, placing the country at the top of the world's daily list for deaths and the numbers of displaced persons, both internally and externally, not to mention the ensuing savage corruption, child molestation, rape, rampant kidnapping, all contrary to the noble goals and the foundations of your organisation.

In anticipation of your response, please accept my sincere thanks and appreciation,

Dr. Muhamad Tareq Al-Darraji

The city of Fallujah:

In 2003, after the fall of the capital Baghdad following the US lead invasion, Fallujah remained calm and, and contrary to what happened elsewhere, there was no looting. But the policy pursued by the US – UK of indiscriminate killing of civilians and of collective punishment, generated resistance in the whole area. In order to eradicate the resistance that got underway, in and around Fallujah, the invading forces attacked the city and the crimes committed in the course of these attacks are the subject of the present report.

Examples of the policy of collective punishment in the city of Fallujah

1. The killing of the participants of peaceful demonstrations:

On the 23rd of April 2003, few days after the US forces occupied Baghdad, a group of students in Fallujah went on peaceful demonstrators in front of a Al-Qaed school in the Nazzal neighbourhood, to protest taking the school as abase for the troops. The US forces fired indiscriminately on them leaving 13 dead and 75 wounded.

The US soldiers also shot the medical staff who tried to rescue the injured (testimony of Dr. Ahmed Ghanim Al- Ali, the director of the hospital at the time. See annex). Among the dead were three children under the age of 11. On the 1st of April, US forces opened fire on civilians at a bakery. On 30th of April 2003, US soldiers opened fire on a funeral, killing two civilians and wounding 14 others, children among them (see the testimony of the journalist Chris Huges).

1 - Fallujah is a city rooted in history, located some 45 km to the west of the capital Baghdad. It has a population of more than 350000 inhabitants and is at the crossroad of three rural areas that total 300000 inhabitants, which brings the overall population of the area of Fallujah to 650000 people. The population of Fallujah is conservative as regards social, religious, traditional and tribal issues.
2. The provocation and killing of the protection force and police forces of Fallujah

This crime was perpetrated by the private security company Blackwater and U.S. forces. In the night of the 11th of September 2003, individuals driving a blue BMW opened fire on the office of the mayor of Fallujah. The Fallujah Protection Force (That force was formally created by the mayor and included well experienced people) - who was joined by two police patrols- chased the car on the old road towards Baghdad. The car entered the U.S. camp located 3-4 km outside the city. The pursuers returned to Fallujah a 12 p.m. under heavy fire. The US forces fired directly at the wheel of the car carrying the Fallujah Protection Force. This incident killed 8 people of the Fallujah protection force and wounded and other two

The Iraqi forces did not return fire. In spite of the Iraqis identifying themselves as members of the police, the American soldiers killed them there and then. Ambulance services were fired upon and prevented from assisting the victims.

Some of the Iraqis remained at some distance until sunrise when U.S. troops started to collect the dead and wounded and the destroyed trucks. Many of the eight victims died because of lack of care. The Americans left two wounded behind, believing them dead (see below the victims names)2.

After the intervention of the Fallujah mayor, Mr. Taha Bedawy and repeated interventions by other officials of Fallujah, the US military handed over the eight bodies that had been left in the back of crushed vehicles in the burning sun. The wounded, besides the damage to their bodies, were psychologically traumatised.

Three months after the incident, the U.S. forces merged the Fallujah protection force with the Fallujah police, even though the former played a crucial role in maintaining law and order.

At the beginning of February 2004, elected members of the City Council of Fallujah (December 2003 - June 2004), attended a meeting with the U.S. forces at their military base near Fallujah. The meeting was attended by Americans and by some people wearing civilian clothes and the Iraqi Arab scarf. The Americans were part of the private security contractors and the representatives of the administration of Paul Bremer in Fallujah. The Americans wanted to recruit Iraqi agents for protection. This proposition was rejected on the ground that, according to the Geneva Conventions, the responsibility of the security of Iraqis, lies with the occupying power. The Americans were told that the people of Fallujah did not need the protection of US forces if the police forces could get supplied with adequate equipment and weapons.
Outside the tent where the meeting was held, we saw new civilian cars, some were BMW driven by members of the company Blackwater, which confirmed that the unknown car that caused the incident mentioned above, came from them. This prompted the question as to why they fired on the building of the local administration at midnight. To be noted that the Americans had replaced the paratroopers stationed in Fallujah before four security agents of Blackwater were killed.

3. Arbitrary arrests and torture

The U.S military pursued an aggressive policy against the Iraqi resistance, in particular the people of Fallujah. This included arbitrary arrests. The testimonies by some of the victims (Please see annex) tell of systematic torture. Those arrested also made allegation of a policy of humiliation.

The U.S. military and the private security companies have to take responsibility for these centres and for what happened within their walls since they trained and supervised the perpetrators, under the pretext of combating terrorism.

One of the crimes happen near to my neighbors, whereas a very big American force formed of marines airdrop soldiers, carrier helicopter Chinook, apache helicopters supported with tanks, hammer and armored humvee vehicles and a big number of the marines soldiers accompanied with strange persons (According to the neighborhood families evidences) seen for the first time in Falluja that they were with beards and accompanied with very dangerous dogs broke into the house of Mr. Najim Abdul-Ilah Al-Mashhadani in Al-Shorta neighborhood in Falluja town at dawn of Sunday, 18. June. 2006 to spread panic and terrorism in the hearts of people in the nearby area using a big force that’s enough to break into a town but not a small neighborhood! It started with exploding the outer door and ask the young man Sinan to show the badge to identify himself and he did showed his ID (The Americans did it to all Falluja people to use it in going out and coming into Falluja) to assert that he’s Sinan, but they shot him dead with a hail of bullets and pulled him on the floor of the house after arresting the rest of the family in one of the rooms. The martyr Sinan was 22 (Twenty two) years old, a student in the third stage in Al-Mustansiria university and carried out the sustenance for a family formed of a young brother (13 years old), sister and a sick mother, and to your knowledge, his father was a martyr because of the civilians bombardment in the first American military operation against Falluja in April, 2004.

The American force took the 13 years old child (Ameen) with badly hitting to his small weak body and the dogs around him biting his hands while they put the curtains and sheets and mattresses over the martyr's body Sinan that even his family thought that he's arrested with his young brother Ameen but for the neighbors tried to arrange the messed up and broken things in the house to find the body of Sinan between the sheets and curtains!

Three days after the arresting, Ameen Najum Abdullah (11years), the boy talked about the non human treatment by the beard men who were wearing ear rings, by attacking him and scaring him with a dog which was left to attack the child Ameen to bite him three times in his left hand to deform the hand.

The brutality of that American force didn't even stop to that family but crossed to the neighbors and the rest of the houses of the neighborhood to attack them that one of the mad dogs attacked a woman who tried to protect her baby whom the American dog tried to bite but he bit the kind kind-hearted mother's hand who jumped in front of her son with courage and let the pure blood of the mother flow from her hand until the forces left at 6 (Six) a.m. in the same day to bandage her wounds. The behavior those occupation forces reached to thievery in robbing and stealing the money and jewels of those families to prove that it's a mercenary's army before it's an occupation army.

4. Crimes in the course of the first assault on Fallujah (April 2004)

On the 4th of April 2004, members of the Fallujah local council (City Council) were informed during a meeting with the commander of U.S. marines forces in Fallujah that they intended to take military action against the insurgents who presumably killed the four contractors although there were negotiations underway about this issue. The U.S. forces were asking the population of Fallujah not to leave the city, or, if they did to get food and medicine only, to hold a white flag in front of U.S. troops. They had apparently already decided to besiege the city and prevent the supply of food and medicine entering the city, thus violating the Geneva Conventions that explicitly prohibits the starvation of civilians. Furthermore the civilian population was prevented from leaving the city which is another violation of the Geneva Conventions. Any attempts to discuss the issue regarding collective punishment (in reprisal for the killing of the 4 agents of Blackwater) was dismissed by the commander of the Marine Corps who replied that this were his order from the Pentagon and Washington.

The delegation returned to the city and decided to launch an urgent appeal by satellite channels to save our city from destruction. But, what was feared, occurred. The U.S. aircraft bombed most areas of Fallujah randomly and brutally, starting with bombs and rockets. Later huge bombs weighing 300-500 kg were dropped as well as cluster bombs which killed and wounded thousands of civilians and displaced thousands more. They also destroyed homes and property.

Further collective punishment took the form of American snipers targeting any moving body, killing innocent civilians, young and old, M and F, (See annex).

In a further violation of the Geneva Convention the sick and wounded were prevented from reaching the hospital by cutting off the bridge connecting the city to the general hospital. This is an egregious crime under international humanitarian law. The main football stadium of the city was turned into a burial ground for thousands of victims. Those who lost their houses and sheltered in schools.
In another incident, more than 30 civilians who tried to escape the city, carrying white flags, were bombed by American F-16 jet fighters. It seems that the American pilot asked his superior how to deal with civilians. Only to be ordered to shoot to kill. Link to video

One look on the web, such as YouTube will provide evidence. The general and the security situation in Fallujah prevented the systematic collection of testimonies. However, there are some, at the end of this document, (originals in Arabic).

5. The cutting short of the peace talks that could have prevented the second battle of Fallujah

In August 2004, following the first battle of Fallujah the Baghdad government demanded that a formal security force be established composed of people from Fallujah under the control of the new government, that would not include U.S. forces, who would not enter the city, except in specific situations, accompanied by the security forces of the new army.

Unfortunately, this agreement received no international guarantees and the US forces rejected the intervention and the presence of the UN.

In the time between the two battles, which was supposed to be a time of peace, the U.S. forces, under the pretext of chasing insurgents, kept on bombing the residential and industrial areas with bombs of 500 kg, and occasionally with cluster bombs. Negotiations started between a delegation from Fallujah, under the chairmanship of Sheikh Khaled Hamoud Jumaili (that comprised also Dr. Rafee Hiead Issawi,) and a delegation from the Dr. Iyad Allawi’s government (Iraqi interim government), headed by Mr. Hazem Shaalan who was the Iraqi defence minister at that time.

The dialogue eventually reached a peace agreement. The Iraqi Defence Minister Hazem Shaalan asked for a 3 days break for consultations within the Iraqi Council of Ministers chaired by Dr. Iyad Allawi. Two days later, Mr. Hazem Shaalan requested an emergency meeting. The delegation from Fallujah was told by the minister of defence, Mr. Hazim, that the U.S. forces rejected the peace agreement and were determined to strike and seize the city. There was nothing the Iraqi government could do. (A tape recording with full details is available).

As a new massacre looms, disinformation is rife, spreading the word that the population of Fallujah rejects peace. Following the rejection of the peace agreement by the government of Iyad Allawi under pressure from the Americans, an urgent meeting was arranged with the representative of the Secretary General of the United Nations in Iraq, Mr. Ashraf Qazi. The delegation of Fallujah formally asked Mr. Ashraf Qazi to intervene to prevent a further assault.

Mr. Ashraf Qazi sent an urgent letter to New York requesting the Secretary General of the United Nations, Mr. Kofi Annan, to intervene in order to give peace a chance and prevent further military actions for which the civilian population would pay a high price. In reply, Mr. Kofi Annan addressed an open letter to the occupying forces, in which he requested the U.S., British and Iraqi governments to renounce military action, in order to spare the civilians’. He also asked that the United Nations be allowed to intervene as a mediator in the talks.

Mr. Kofi Annan message was rejected by both the governments of the U.S. and the UK. Then British Prime Ministers Mr. Tony Blair asked and got permission for the transfer of 5000 British soldiers from Basra in preparation of the second onslaught by using lies.

All these elements are conclusive proof that there was no real will to find a peaceful solution that would have spared the city and prevented the killing and the wounding of hundreds or people as well as the displacement of thousands of others.

It is an established fact that the American forces prevented aid agencies such as the Iraqi Red Crescent Society (IRCS) and the International Committee for the Red Cross (ICRC) from entering the city and the nearby towns and villages to assist hundreds of thousands of refugees from Fallujah who were struggling to survive without water, food, medicine and electricity. According to IRCS, this had created a humanitarian disaster. The teams of doctors and relief experts of the IRCS were denied access by the American forces. The also tried to bring humanitarian relief into the city and the refugee camps. In a statement on the 10th November, the ICRC declared that there were thousands of elderly, women and children who had had neither food nor water for days.

In order to cover up their crimes, the U.S. forces prevented the free press from entering the city during the military operations. A number of news agencies and photographers as well as the testimony of U.S. marines soldier (see annex), witnessed the existence of surviving civilians within the city, in particular people too poor to escape and who constitute the majority of the population. Children were seen begging for food. A witness, who went into the city one month after the end of the battle, (ready to testify provided he gets protection) saw the bodies of civilians from his neighbourhood, the civilians being yet again the main victims. There also is a large number of missing.

U.S. forces arrested and detained an approximate three thousand civilians (especially men and youth) who had remained in the city with their families. In violation of human rights, they were detained in cages and some of them were forced to clean up the city in order to wipe out any evidence of the American crimes. The U.S. transferred a large number of arrested civilians to Abu Ghraib and to Basra (Boukah) prisons. Many of them died as a result of ill treatment. There are still hundreds of people missing from Fallujah, like the old man called Shaker Hamdan Abdullah Al-Faiad Al-Kubaesy who went missing in the American prison in Basra, after he sent many letters to his family.

Many witnesses confirmed the wholesale killing of unarmed civilians inside their houses and in mosques. Some were shot after being handcuffed. Other blown up inside their own homes. The civilians who stayed in the city during the American offensive had a hard time at the hand of the occupying forces and the so-called Iraqi National Guards. The deliberate killing of civilians was a common occurrence. Many children were witness to the murder of their parents, just as men had to watch, helpless, when their children and their wives were being killed. Hamid Abdulrazzak Sultan, a citizen from Fallujah, witnessed the killing of his pregnant wife along with his 4 sons during an American attack in November 2004. Four members of the Fawzi Hussein Salman al-Aisawi’s family where killed by the American forces in front of their daughter, Huda. Almost every family who stayed in Fallujah had to bury a victim in the garden of their house.

Although there are no exact numbers of civilian casualties on record, thousands died. On the 25th and 26th of December 2004, the emergency teams of Fallujah hospital removed 700 bodies from six residential quarters alone. The American forces announced that they had more than 1200 bodies kept in refrigerated stores outside Fallujah (the store that was used for the storing of potatoes), which goes to show the heavy price the civilians paid.
Eyewitnesses reported that members of the Iraqi National Guards have looted houses and stores, using their official cars, and openly sold the loot in areas of Fallujah as well as in Baghdad. Not only was the looting condoned by the U.S. forces but also some US marines participated in the looting as confessed by the former Marines soldier (see annex).

A numbers of returnees who were living in the residential area of al-Andalus found their houses intact after the battle. However after a short absence they found their houses destroyed for no obvious reason. (see Ross Caputi’s account in Annex).

The committee of the government for reconstruction found that in Fallujah 26000 houses partially destroyed, 3000 houses completely destroyed as well as 70 mosques and 50 schools. The power plant that provides electricity was completely destroyed as well as 50% of the drinking water distribution system and 70% of the sewer system.

The destruction is well documented thanks to the media in particular, Dr. Ali Fadhel who was working for the British Channel 4. Another Iraqi journalist reported on the defiling of the mortal remains of some citizen of Fallujah.

All in all, 25 hours of recording were handed over to the Special Representative of the Secretary General in Iraq, Mr. Ashraf Qazi, who instructed his staff to requests the U.S. forces to give access to two teams, respectively, from the World Health Organization and the Office of Human Rights of UNAMI, for them to investigate. The U.S. forces denied those requests under the usual pretext of security risk. Thus a comprehensive scientific study was prevented.

Here below are the main issues for which further investigation are required for this battle:

1. The killing of civilians, in particular the killing of an old man who was lying wounded in a mosque (On November 16, NBC News aired footage that showed an American Marine of the 3rd Battalion 1st Marines) and the shooting dead of a wounded Iraqi fighter. US Navy investigators from the NCIS later determined that the Marine was acting in self-defense.

The wanton destruction of property. The destruction of houses that were still inhabited

The looting and the defiling of the mortal remains of fallen civilians

2. The disclosure of the location of mass graves where bodies burnt by prohibited weapons or had their throats cut. (see testimony of US journalist Dexter Filkins who witnessed the defiling of some dead bodies)

3. The use of many types of prohibited weapons which lead to nuclear contamination, worse than in Hiroshima and Nagasaki, according to the latest published international report (Buspy et al., 2010).

The U.S. admitted using White Phosphorus (WP) following a television footage broadcasted on Italian channel RAInews on the 24th on November 2005 (see the link of RAInews24)

In a interview given to the BBC, a Pentagon spokesman admitted on the 16th of November 2005: “We actually used chemical weapons against the insurgents, but not against the civilians”. It is well known that these weapons are indiscriminate.

The Italian RAInews24 has shown the two U.S. soldiers using chemical weapons such as WP, while a sniper was killing two civilians on the instructions of the U.S. military. (Please see the testimonies below). While we are unable to identify the British Units, but we know that the US military units who participated in this battle (see the footnote below):3:

3. Regimental Combat Team 1 (RCT-1) built around the 1st Marine Regiment:
   - 3rd Battalion 1st Marines (Infantry)(Main Effort) • 3rd Battalion 5th Marines (Infantry) • 3rd Light Armoured Reconnaissance Battalion (Mechanized Armoured) • 3rd Battalion 14th Marines— Battery "M" (Artillery) • 1st Battalion 5th Cavalry (US Army Armoured) • 2nd Battalion 7th Cavalry (US Army Armoured) • Company C, 3rd Battalion, 8th Cavalry Regiment (Armoured) • 2nd Tank Battalion — Co C • TOW Platoon (-), 23rd Marines • Scout Platoon, Headquarters & Service Company, 4th Tank Battalion • Company A, MP Battalion, 4th Marine Logistics Group, 4th Marine Division • Company B, (reinforced), 2nd Combat Engineer Battalion, 2nd Marine Division • 4th Civil Affairs Team, 4th Civil Affairs
7. Environmental pollution and its effects on health and the threat to future generations.

The two battles of Fallujah affected the health of the civilian population badly, sparing neither old nor young, neither M nor F. There is a significant increase in the number of cancer cases and congenital malformations. The blockade imposed by U.S. forces prevented any scientific study or real research, equivalent, as regards the level of pollution.
Three years after the end of hostilities, throughout the years 2006/2007, we have, however, in cooperation with the Department of Fallujah hospital, collected the official health statistics showing the burden of disease, in order to produce the first scientific medical report that shows the health status of the city. It was the first report providing figures concerning the substantial increase of congenital malformations and cancers for both sexes and various ages (Prohibited weapons crisis in Fallujah. CCERF-MHRI, 2008). Following the publication of this report, two members of the U.S. Congress visited Fallujah in August 2008 who were unaware of the pollution, but came on a fact finding mission.

The official medical reports to the Fallujah hospital and signed by three senior doctors at the General Hospital state:

1. In 2006, 5928 cases of previously unknown or rarely seen diseases were diagnosed among civilians.

2. In the first half of 2007, 2447 seriously ill patients were admitted, showing mostly little known symptoms. 50% of them were children.

A new study, carried out by researcher, Chris Busby, Malak Hamdan and Intisar Abadi, shows an increase in the rate of cancer, leukemia, infant mortality, abnormal deliveries and injuries similar to those found among the survivors in Hiroshima and Nagasaki in 1945.

(The International Journal of Environmental Studies and Public Health - (IJERPH) Basel - Switzerland ( no 7 . 7/6/2010 pp 2828-2837))

A field survey conducted in Fallujah in February 2010 that included 711 houses, involving 4000 interviews, revealed that five years after the American attack of 2004, all forms of cancers have been multiplied by four.

Cancers were found, similar to those of the survivors in Hiroshima who had been exposed to radiations resulting from the atomic bomb. Comparing the data from the samples of Fallujah with data from Egypt and Jordan, the researchers found that the ________________________________ incidence was 38 times higher for leukaemia (20 cases) and ten times higher for breast cancer for F,s (12 cases), as well as a significant increase in lymphoma and brain tumours in adults.

Over a five-year period, a 12 fold increase in cancer in 14 year old children was noted. An increase in the incidence of cancer and leukaemia, that affect young people was also noted. The Infant mortality climbed to 80 deaths per thousand life births compared with 19 deaths in Egypt and 17 in Jordan and 9.7 in Kuwait. Another important issue is the sex-ratio. Normally there are about 1050 Ms and 1000 F,s. However, after 2005, there is a sharp decline in M children as only about 350 little boys were born.

Within the last 6 years, the rate of birth defects in Fallujah has climbed by more than 25%. Congenital heart defects (CHD) has the highest incidence, followed by neural tube defects (NTD), and skeletal anomalies. Similar birth defects were reported in populations exposed to war contaminants. Heavy metals (PB), radioactive material like depleted uranium (DU), are known to have Teratogenic and Mutagenic effects and to induce damages through epigenetic mechanisms. (Data under publication).
Recommendations:

1. The inability of the Iraqi judiciary to undertake any proceedings leading to eventual trials and accountability for the crimes and violations by the U.S.-British soldiers, is clear evidence of the complicity and to the continuation of absolute occupation, thereafter the situation was ratified thereafter with the drafting of the security agreement between U.S. government and the Iraqi government confirming and regularizing this deficiency.

It is our cherished right to hold to account the International Community who now has both the mandate, and moral responsibility to initiate proceedings to prosecute and hold accountable all those perpetrators and seek full restitution and compensations in appropriate portion and scale, commensurate with the endured suffering and pain throughout the endured periods and continuing till the present day.

2. we appeal to the international community, to hold the perpetrators of these crimes accountable, and obtain compensation for the victims, including for the suffering and all pain endured.

3. The establishment of an international criminal court, or at least an independent fact-finding mission to look at all violations happened in Iraq by the United States since 1991.

4. The reinstitution of the Special Rapporteur on human rights in Iraq is one of the first step that the international community can take in order to get at the truth as regards the human rights situation in Iraq.

5. We call on all visual media and audio, which has documented the crimes of Fallujah, to send a copy to the office of the special procedures in the Human Rights Council of the United Nations, to assist victims of Fallujah and help stop these crimes.

• Testimony of former private US Marines soldier

To / The Office of Special Procedures of the Human Rights Council of UN

My name is Ross Caputi and I am a former Private of the United States Marine Corps. I was in the 1st Battalion, 8th Marine Regiment Alpha, Company Headquarters Platoon during the time of Operation Phantom Fury in Fallujah, Iraq, in November of 2004. I hope that my testimony is useful in bringing attention to the human rights violations and war crimes that we committed, and in giving at least some amount of justice to the people of Fallujah.

My unit was inserted into Fallujah as part of the main effort of this operation, during which I was the company commander’s radio operator. Our company Commander’s name was Captain Cunningham. I have knowledge of certain war crimes and human rights violations that he was aware of and allowed to continue. I also witnessed white phosphorous being dropped on Fallujah during an air assault.

Before we were inserted into the center of Fallujah, my unit sat outside of the city in fighting holes, waiting for the air assault to finish. Ground troops had not yet entered the city at this point. During that evening when it was dark, I witnessed white phosphorous being dropped on Fallujah. I asked a nearby lieutenant if it was legal to use white phosphorous, and he replied to me that it was because we were dropping it on the periphery of the city and we were only using it as a smoke screen, rather than using it offensively. From my position I could not see with any certainty whether the white phosphorous was dropped on the city, on the periphery of the city, or on civilians who had fled their homes and were camping in the periphery of the city; and that lieutenant could not either. Because he seemed certain that we were using it as a smoke screen, without being able to see where it had landed, I think he knew beforehand that we were going to use white phosphorous. That lieutenant was Lieutenant Malcom of 1st Battalion 8th Marines Alpha Company Weapons Platoon, who was killed two days later from a gunshot wound.
A few days later we were inserted into the mayor’s complex in the center of the city. I believe that this was around the 10th of November. From there we pushed forward going house-to-house for several weeks until we reached the far end of the city. In each house there were often possessions left behind from the families that had recently lived there. Looting became very commonplace. The people around me were stealing anything that seemed valuable – silverware, teapots, knives, and clothing. I stole a black winter sky mask out of a home. Other people in my unit were searching the pockets of dead resistance fighters for money. The platoon commanders and the company commander were aware of what was happening, and they tolerated it for several days, until they eventually issued an order that everyone had to stop looting.

During this period we began using a tactic called reconnaissance by fire. Reconnaissance by fire is when you fire into an area or building to see if there are people there. If you hear silence after your firing, then there are no people in this area or building. If you hear otherwise, then there are either combatants or civilians there. Before the operation began we were briefed that all civilians had left the city, but on November 10th we encountered civilians in the center of Fallujah and we realized that this information was untrue. Reconnaissance by fire is always indiscriminate, and we began using it several days after we were inserted into the city, even after we learned that there were still civilians in the city. The platoon commanders and the company commander were aware that we were using reconnaissance by fire, they allowed it to go on for several days, but eventually they gave an order that we were no longer allowed to use reconnaissance by fire. I should make it clear that I never witnessed reconnaissance by fire with my own eyes. I only heard it being talked about on the radio, and I heard other Marines talking about it. I was the company commander’s radio operator, and radio transmissions about reconnaissance by fire came over the radio when he was present, so I am certain that he was aware that we were using reconnaissance by fire.

We also used bulldozers to clear houses. This tactic was used the entire time that we were in Fallujah. If there were suspected resistance fighters in a house, then we would just bulldoze it on top of them, rather than risking our lives by entering the house. Sometimes if we were unsure whether or not there were resistance fighters in a house, then we would bulldoze it just in case. In these instances this tactic becomes indiscriminate. I witnessed the battalion that flanked us bulldozing an entire neighborhood so that they would not have to send their men inside to clear those houses.

There was one incident when there were two resistance fighters and a young boy, roughly ten years old, bunkered into a house. I am not sure if attempts were made to negotiate or to save that young boy’s life in some way, but we eventually started firing grenades into the house with a mark-19 until the house collapsed on top of all three of them. They were all killed. The lieutenant closest to this incident was Lieutenant Barns of 1st Battalion 8th Marines, Alpha Company, 3rd Platoon. I do not know what was done with their bodies, or if any action was taken to identify the bodies and report this incident. My entire chain of command was aware of this incident. It was filmed by reporters from the BBC, one of which was Paul Woods. This video was available on youtube for a while, but was eventually removed. In every instance that we killed either resistance fighters or civilians, I am unaware of any action taken to report their deaths. We always just moved on.

I have given all the information that I think might be helpful, and I would be willing to testify further before any of the special procedures about any aspect of Operation Phantom Fury, or any other incident that I witnessed in Iraq.

Sincerely,

Ross Caputi
